R. Evans, government veterinary inspector, left here last Friday, after having inspected all the sheep in the district. He found them sound and healthy, with the exception of Dr. Pare's band, which is badly affected with the scab, and he will likely lose a good many. It is said the infected sheep were brought at Saskatoon and guaranteed free from all disease, so that a lawsuit for damages will be the outcome.

He selected a township with a view of settling a colony of 100 families in the spring. THE NOR-WESTER.

The first two numbers of the daily Nor-Wester published in Winnipeg under the management of W. F. Luxton, late of the Free Press, came to hand by last mail. Owing to circumstances with which most people in the Northwest are now familiar, the advent of the Nor-Wester has been eagerly looked forward to. Not because another daily newspaper was wanted or needed in Winnipeg for news purposes—for the Free Press and Tribune are both excellent newspapers, quite up to or beyond the requirements or supporting powers of the available constituency—but because it was felt that in the removal of Mr. Luxton from the management of the Free Press the country had lost the one champion upon whom it could depend for the defence of its interests, and that in the establishment of the Nor-Wester under his management, the best was being done that could be done to supply the loss.

Although the numbers received do not contain any flourish of trumpets as to what course the Nor-Wester will take, enough is contained to show that a very important field of usefulness will be occupied by the new paper as only Mr. Luxton can occupy it when his heart is in the work. The Nor-Wester can evidently be depended upon to deal energetically with the question that above all others is the question of the Northwest today, namely the question of railway competition, railway extension and railway rates. Good paper through the Free Press is, this is the one question that it cannot touch unless it be to stand in the way of the popular interests and demands. The Tribune has done good work in this cause in the past, but in so far as its fortunes are connected with those of the present Manitoba government, and in so far as the fortunes of that government are linked with the C. P. R.—and that they are so linked is a matter of public notoriety—the Tribune is muzzled as the champion of the popular cause. On the other hand the Nor-Wester's very reason for existence arose from the aggressions of the railway; and if it receives the support from the people of Manitoba and the Territories which it should receive by reason of its merit as a newspaper and the importance of the cause which it advocates the change of management of the Free Press, which at the time seemed a calamity, will result in benefit rather than injury to the country, and it is to be hoped in financial advantage to Mr. Luxton as well. Freed from the entangling alliances which his enterprise had forced him into as manager of the Free Press, backed by men of business ability and sound patriotism, as are the members of the Nor-Wester company, Mr. Luxton is now in a position better than ever before to fight the battle of popular rights against railway, and—it is to be hoped—every other monopoly.

Another field of usefulness that will be occupied by the Nor-Wester will be that of opposition critic of the present Manitoba government. No doubt the present Manitoba government is a very good government, but until the recent change in the management of the Free Press it had in that paper a very able critic. Since the change it has had the support of both the Winnipeg dailies. Criticism or even opposition is good for any government—that is it assists in its good management—and unless the members of the Greenway administration are more perfect than their best friends claim them to be they will pay all the better attention to the management of the affairs of the province for being subject to the pointed or even hostile criticism of the Nor-Wester. For the sake of the Nor-Wester itself, however, and for the sake of its usefulness it is to be hoped that more attention will be paid to facts and arguments and less to assertion and abuse than was the case with the criticisms of the Free Press under Mr. Luxton's management. It is to be hoped that the Nor-Wester will have a large support in the Northwest, and that its manager will remember that that part of his constituency has only a secondary interest in the doings of the Manitoba government whether they be good or ill, while all parts of both Manitoba and the Territories are interested in the railway question.

In regard to federal politics no doubt the Nor-Wester will do as the Free Press always aimed to do, namely support measures rather than men. The Free Press was never a hide bound partizan and it is fair to suppose that the Nor-Wester will not be, especially when it is considered that leading reformers and conservatives form the company which publishes it. The fact that such men will unite to publish such a paper is an indication that party cries are losing their hold upon the people, that there are issues arising which cannot be dealt with by parties organized along present lines, and that therefore there is a widespread tendency to organize new combinations to deal with these new issues. As a practical embodiment of this feeling the Nor-Wester is particularly valuable, and may fairly claim attention from men ranged on both sides of politics, who would persistently shut their ears to any possible arguments advanced by or on behalf of the opposing party.

In size the daily Nor-Wester does not compete with the Free Press or Tribune, having eight pages of only five columns each. But in this the company avoids the mistake made by Mr. Luxton in his career on the Free Press whereby in the attempt to give people more than their money's worth he placed himself under obligations which greatly detracted from the usefulness of his paper and finally resulted in his financial ruin. The point for the public to consider is: Are the 40 columns per day of the Nor-Wester as good to us for our purposes as the 56 columns of the Free Press? If they are they are worth as much money. If they are better they are worth more money and should be preferred. It is not the size of a paper but the side it takes that makes it valuable—not the number of words contained so much as the information conveyed and the ideas advanced. Under the present circumstances a paper that will fight the battles of the people of this country with a single eye to the public interest is worth whatever it costs whether it be small or large.

MIXED FARMING.

A good deal of fun has been poked at the minister of agriculture for his advice to the people of the Northwest to go into mixed farming, but as the district which above all others claims to be best suited for mixed farming, it does not become Edmonton to make light of the minister's utterances on the subject. What the minister says on this point is sound sense, and as its point is directly in the interest of this district it is quoted in full:

I made during the autumn, with one of my colleagues, the minister of finance, an extended tour in the province of Manitoba, the territories of the Northwest and the province of British Columbia, with the object of examining personally the natural resources of those great areas of the Dominion; and for making myself personally acquainted with the progress made by the settlers, their needs and methods. I found that in Manitoba and the Northwest the attention of farmers, generally speaking, had been mainly fixed on the raising of wheat. When no drawbacks happen to prevent the large yields from this grain which may naturally be expected in the virgin fertile soils of the Northwest, and when fair prices can be obtained for the product, the production of wheat is lucrative, and there is a strong temptation to farmers to follow it in preference to other branches. But drawbacks sometimes arise even in the favored regions of the Northwest, in the same way as in other countries, and it happened during the year of my visit to South Manitoba, the large promise of the early spring sowing was materially checked by the influence of hot dry winds, above referred to, which occurred during the summer; a drawback which was followed by the unusually low price which prevailed for wheat. This combination of circumstances I found bore more heavily on some localities than others. It constituted as I have stated, a local drawback, but I was glad to find it was not destructive of the hope and courage of the farmers, who well knew the resources of the rich soils they were working. But the circumstances impressed on my mind the importance of what is called mixed farming for Manitoba and the Northwest, in the same way as for other parts of the Dominion of Canada and elsewhere. I found in many parts of the Northwest, so exclusive was the devotion of the farmers to the production of wheat, that, generally speaking, they had not bestowed attention to such details as butter, cheese, eggs, poultry, swine, sheep, &c., for the supply of their own needs. A farmer supplying all these things is naturally in a better position and more independent when the accident of a more or less serious drawback arises, than another who has devoted the whole of his attention to one crop, the subject of such accident. Mixed farming would also be more useful for fostering the home industries which play so important a part in older settled farming communities, and which tend so materially to the well-being and comfort of the farmers. I did not for instance see any of the forms of the home manufacture found to be so useful and important in other parts of the Dominion, and which in the aggregate form so important a part of the general wealth. The fact of so exclusive a dependence on the growing of wheat is a proof of the natural richness of the soil, which has not yet been denuded of its productive properties; and the extent to which wheat has been exclusively grown may be taken as a proof of the very great and unexhausted richness of the soil. So much exclusive growing of this grain would be impossible in any of the older parts of the Dominion, or the old settled portions of the United States, or the farming countries of Europe; but with the possession of this great natural wealth in the soil, I should be glad to see the Northwestern farmers avail themselves of the methods which I have ventured to suggest.

RAILWAY MONOPOLY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE BULLETIN.

DEAR SIR: I have recently been perusing the innumerable items in different papers dealing with this endless question of C. P. R. freight rates. It seems utterly impossible that a corporation, it matters not of what magnitude, could step into a country peopled with such an energetic class as we pretend to be, and secure such a foothold and monopoly as this present company now hold. They are simply treating us as we would a brute. If we don't come by leading they drive us, and after our many efforts we have not yet discovered the slightest remedy. We have prayed and petitioned in all manners and forms, both directly and indirectly, to their leading officials, and all the satisfaction we have secured is the same old stand off, i. e. your petition will receive due consideration, or such like. And again, where the laughing point comes in, even our government decline to interfere. This must say is a critical state of affairs when one faction controls a country and tramps on the people, and the government of that country turns round and says: "We are powerless in your aid, and cannot render any assistance." And yet we boast of our efficient immigration policy. Where the efficiency comes in is in driving the people out instead of inducing them to come in. And yet with all this burden on our shoulders, and with the universal ill-feelings of nine tenths of the people against the company there are only a small proportion of complaints brought to light. One class seems to have submitted to their doom and have resolved to grin and bear it. And the other class for fear of the company laying on a still higher rate, are loath to bringing their grievances before the public, and it is only a few of the most daring and resolute that have come to the front as complainants. But where the fault lies and where we have been proven to be ineffectual, is in our mode of procedure. I have not yet seen one letter on this question that I could call logic, or that I could say was founded on a firm and substantial basis. They are all bent on coaxing and asking the company for a reduction, etc. But we have never given the matter of compelling them to do so even one solitary thought. I yet fail to see the company of any kind that has ever given their patrons justice unless driven to do so by competition, and so long as this company has sole control over our railroads, so long will we be imposed upon. Had we in the last few years exercised our energies in the way of advocating our position in this direction our efforts undoubtedly would have proven more fruitful. This thing of a lot of people praying and clamoring to a company for justice whose sole aim is to drain the country of its last dollar is utterly ridiculous and speaks very little for the people who do it. The time has now arrived that we as people of the nineteenth century should recognize our folly and not be made a laughing stock of any longer by our American neighbors. Our country in the last decade increased half a million, in the preceding decade it increased over six hundred thousand, which goes to show that we are going down hill, instead of up. True, to read our Canadian literature you would imagine we are undergoing a perpetual boom, but when facts and figures are brought to play against this endless chain of literary exaggeration it proves it to be nothing but indurated talk, and until this railroad monopoly with all other monopolies is suppressed we will continue to descend. When a person considers that the United States gets the same immigration in one year that we get in twenty-four, it makes him tired. If we expect settlers to come to our country we should adopt some mode to protect them when they do come. This thing of expending thousands of dollars annually towards immigration, and then tramping on them as though they were so many mice when they do come is a farce. In conclusion I will say, "Down with railroad monopoly, for so long as we allow Van Home to deal us four aces and Saughnessy a straight flush, so long shall we be compelled to deliver the pot."

News of Edmonton and surroundings up to hour of issue.

News of the world by telegraph up to day of issue and from two to five days ahead of any other paper reaching Edmonton.

Controlled only by the proprietor and therefore always ready and willing to speak out for the good of the town and district.

The BULLETIN is read more generally throughout the Edmonton district than any other paper.

If you want to do business in the Edmonton district you can reach more of the people with a less expenditure of money through the advertising columns of the BULLETIN than by any other means.

Fair advertising rates charged, and like rates to all parties.

No advertising of a questionable nature admitted if its character is known.

The BULLETIN Printing office is second to none in the Territories. Only first-class type, machinery and paper employed. Printing of all kinds done promptly, neatly and cheaply. Call and see samples of work, and get prices before ordering your printing elsewhere.

A newspaper is not a producing industry, but if properly conducted it assists and stimulates production and progress more than any other single agency of like cost. Money spent towards the support of a newspaper is almost entirely spent within the town in which the paper is published and is therefore not lost to the business of the town.

The local newspaper represents the district in which it is published to the outside world.

Support your home paper liberally if it deserves support, so that it can give the best possible impression of your town and district as a field for immigration and investment.

There is big money for a new town in having a live and interesting paper.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.
The first concert of the Edmonton Orchestral society took place on Friday evening in Robertson hall and was unquestionably the musical success of the season. The audience was not as large as the merits of the entertainment warranted, but everyone was well pleased and it is safe to predict that the next concert given by the society will be greeted with an overflowing house. The following were the instrumental performers: First violins, Geo. Parnes (conductor); R. L. Mortimer, F. Cory, P. L. McNamara; 2nd violins, Mr. Karam; double bass, Mr. Boyer; clarinet, J. B. Spurr (president); flutes, Dr. H. L. McInnis (vice president); F. Rice; bassoon, G. Andrews; cornets, W. Clarke, R. Hocky, G. May; trombone, A. G. Randall; tuba, Dr. G. G. Wain; Piano, Prof. Andrews. The BULLETIN does not profess to be a competent musical critic, but can say that the music was most pleasing, and was rendered in a manner which showed that a great deal of pains had been taken with a great deal of success by the several performers and their conductor to attain the perfection with which the many difficult and beautiful selections were rendered. The vocal portion of the entertainment well sustained the reputation of the old favorites who took part and firmly established several new singers in the good opinions of the Edmonton public. This was the first appearance of Mrs. Mackenzie of South Edmonton, wife of Toronto, and of Madame Reggio of Black Mt. lake, late of Paris, France, before an Edmonton audience. Unfortunately Mrs. Mackenzie was suffering from a cold and was therefore unable to respond to the encore which her first song elicited or to render the second song for which she was down on the programme. But the song she gave proved her to be a most desirable acquisition to the vocal talent of the district. Madame Reggio gave two songs which were received with an encore and a double encore respectively. In quality and compass of voice and brilliancy of execution this lady is said to excel. Mrs. Hocky of Edmonton also sang in very pleasing style and received a merited encore. The following is the programme as rendered: Overture, "Le Diademe." Song, "Will of the Wisp." Dr. Hocky, Poles, "The Jolly Blacksmith." Song, "In Old Madrid." Mrs. Mackenzie, encore. Scottish, "The Watermelon Dance." encore. Song, "Leonore." C. D. E. Becker, encore, "Cigarette." Mrs. Mackenzie, "Honor to the Brave." Song, "La Sere-nata." Madame Reggio, violin obligato by Geo. Parnes; encore, selection from "Carmen." March, "War-march of the Priests from 'Athalie.' Mazurka, "Eglantine." Song, "The Holy City." Dr. Hocky, encore. "Pas de deux." La Belleza del Balo. Song, "Esmeralda." Mrs. Hocky, encore. "Daddy, Tarantelle, Tarantelle." Song, "Ave Marie." Madame Reggio, encore. "Honeydew March." encore. Intermezzo, "Cavalleria Rusticana." Song, "Deep in the Mine." A. G. Randall, encore. "Taken in Tow." Finale, "Evening Slumbers." God Save the Queen. The piano accompaniments were played by Miss Charbonneau for Madame Reggio and by Prof. Andrews for the other singers.

GENERAL NEWS.
The whole police force of New Westminster, B. C. has been dismissed owing to demoralization.
The settlers at Willoughby, near Prince Albert, object to the shipping out of cord-wood on the Regina & Long lake railway.
In the recent mayoral election in Montreal 1,400 ballots were declared spoiled. The majority of the successful candidate was only 176.
The Canadian Pacific railroad are having steamers built in England to go on the San Francisco, Vancouver and Lower Sound district route. On Thursday, February 1, the first C. P. R. through train entered Seattle via their Whatcom branch. Not only will a first class C. P. R. train run between Vancouver and Seattle, but by special arrangement a first class Great Northern train will run between Seattle and Vancouver, doing away with the trans-shipment connection between here and New Westminster. The C. P. R. has chartered the steamer City of Seattle for one year at $24,000 to run between Puget Sound, British Columbia and Seattle. By these moves they secure the lion's share of the Midwinter Fair tourist trade.
At a meeting of the North Brandon farmers institute the following resolution was passed almost unanimously: "Your committee on resolutions beg to report as follows: Whereas the exemption act of Manitoba is generally admitted to be a failure for the purpose for which it was enacted; and whereas our reputation as being competent business men is of more value to us at home and abroad than any imaginary benefit that might be gained by means of our exemption; and whereas, the passing of such an act as that proposed by the South Brandon Farmers' Institute would have the effect of raising the price of goods sold on credit; and whereas, the farmers are in such a position that they will be in absolute need of further credit for some time to come, the passing of any act that will make such credit more difficult to procure will be a serious hardship; it is therefore resolved by this meeting that the exemption law of Manitoba ought to be repealed."

The C. P. R. line from Lethbridge to McLeod has been surveyed.
The Roman Catholic clergy of Quebec will take up the subject of the promotion of agricultural interests systematically, and will establish agricultural missions.
A paper is to be published shortly in Toronto to be called the Advocate. It will be devoted to the liquor interest generally and will particularly oppose prohibition.
Prince Albert Times: Monday's east bound train was late getting to Regina, the engine dying out on the road, and consequently Tuesday's train was more than ten hours late leaving Regina for here, and did not arrive till five o'clock Wednesday morning.
